

A Day I've Never Seen Before (Richard Walton)

I took a walk outside to get the morning paper
I was greeted by the rain that fell down on my finger
I opened my eyes, looked to the skies & said thank you Lord
For this day I've never seen before

I went back inside my home and began the day
Made my breakfast, prayed for my wife who had gone away
It opened my eyes, looked to the skies & said thank you Lord
For this day I've never seen before

All at once it was so unreal
Where I could almost touch and feel
The warmth of God's grace on my face

Seems like I woke from an endless dream
Sleeping for a thousand years with lost time in between
I opened my eyes looked to the skies & said thank you Lord
For this day I've never seen before
